Willis is a member of a major international group of companies. In addition to the compensation received by Willis from insurers for placements of your insurance coverages, other parties, such as excess and surplus lines brokers, wholesalers, reinsurance intermediaries, underwriting managers and similar parties (some of which may be owned in whole or in part by Willis' corporate parents or affiliates), may earn and retain usual and customary commissions for their role in providing insurance products or services to clients under their separate contracts with insurers or reinsurers. On October 21, 2004, we announced that we would discontinue contingencies in North America immediately and in the other countries in which we operate by the end of the year. For any placements that were made prior to October 21, 2004, it is possible that Willis, or its corporate parents or affiliates, earned contingent payments or allowances from insurers based on factors which are not client-specific, such as size or performance of an overall book of business produced with an insurer by Willis, its corporate parents or affiliates. Upon written request, Willis will provide information regarding the compensation received by Willis or by its corporate parents or affiliates. Prior to its merger with Willis, HRH accepted contingent compensation on certain of its clients' accounts; these contingents will be phased out over three years, and no contingents will be accepted on any new brokerage clients or business generated after the October 1, 2008 acquisition.
